

TÉR-KÉP, 2024

Territorial characteristics of the environment and the infrastructure ENERGY UTILISATION

Share of dwellings built with electric heat pumps within home building, 2024

The installation of heat pumps became in 2024 the most common primary heating method for new dwellings, their 50% proportion surpassing for the first time those built with gas heating (33%).

The share of new dwellings with heat pumps was above the national average, beside the capital and Pest county, in five Transdanubian counties, too.